Andreas Schweizer, Dr.theol.

President, Psychological Club – Founded 1916

“The years when I was pursuing my inner images were the most important in my life—in them everything essential was decided.” (MDR)

The publication in 2009 of The Red Book, in which C. G. Jung recorded these experiences, is of immense historical significance for all whose thinking is deeply informed by his life and writings and especially for the field of Analytical Psychology. Three distinguished students of Jung's work will offer their reflections on this amazing document of the human soul.

"Je älter ich wurde, desto weniger verstand oder erkannte oder wusste ich mich. ... Ich existiere auf der Grundlage von etwas, das ich nicht kenne. Trotz all der Unsicherheit fühle ich eine Solidität des Bestehenden und eine Kontinuität meines Soseins. ... Je unsicherer ich über mich selber wurde, desto mehr wuchs ein Gefühl der Verwandtschaft mit allen Dingen."
Erinnerungen, Träume, Gedanken, Walter Verlag, 1961/1990, S.360-1.

"The older I have become, the less I have understood or had insight into or known about myself ... I exist on the foundation of something I do not know. In spite of all uncertainties, I feel a solidity underlying all existence and a continuity in my mode of being ... The more uncertain I have felt about myself, the more there has grown up in me a feeling of kinship with all things."
Memories, Dreams, Reflections, Random House, 1961, p.392-2

We live in an age of addiction to power, control, speed, money alcohol, drugs, romance, sex, and even the internet. The addict and the person struggling to create confront many of the same archetypal experiences: the descent into the underworld of the psyche, the confrontation with the inner figures that dwell there, and the possibilities for transformation.
